President Johnson Leads Nation In Paying Tribute to MacArthur

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tributes have been paid in all parts of the country to General of the Army Douglas MacArthur —called by President Johnson "one of the most distinguished soldiers in the history of the United States."

Johnson, ordering the nation's flags flown at half-staff until after the funeral next Saturday, said MacArthur was "a living embodiment of the code he so eloquently expressed — duty-honor-country."

Former President Harry S. Truman, who fired MacArthur from all his commands in a dispute over conduct of the Korean War said he was "deeply sorry at the passing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who has given of himself with exceptional strength and valor and will be remembered as one of the great military men in our history."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., called MacArthur "one of America's greatest soldiers and one of its finest citizens."

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, an opponent of Goldwater for the Republican nomination for president, said MacArthur's "brilliant leadership and heroic patriotism were in the highest tradition of this nation."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said MacArthur was "a true giant on the American and world scene—liberator of the Philippines, architect of victory in the Pacific and creator of modern Japan."

Tributes also came from two other former presidents, Herbert Hoover, who named MacArthur chief of staff in 1931, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who twice served on MacArthur's staff.

Calling MacArthur "a great man, a great general and a great patriot," Hoover said "the world is a finer place for his having lived in it."

Eisenhower said, "Through a long lifetime of service he earned the admiration and respect of his fellow citizens and the personal devotion of those he led in battle."

Among the many other military leaders who paid tribute to MacArthur was Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, who shared the Pacific command in World War II. He praised MacArthur's "qualities of military character, leadership and administrative skill."

Adlai E.Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, quoting from a speech made by MacArthur after the recapture of Corregidor in 1945, said:

"His courage was as high as the flag his troops raised: 'Hoist the colors to its peak and let no enemy haul them down.' "

DOUGLAS MACARTHUR

Old Soldier Fades Away At Age of 84

NEW YORK (AP) — Flags flew at half staff today as the body of General of the Army MacArthur reposed in a funeral chapel attired in a simple khaki tropical uniform without any of the medals and ribbons earned in his military lifetime.

At the general's coffin was an honor guard of all the military services. Twenty policemen stood duty outside while many men and women, on their way to work, paused briefly in front of the funeral home where they knew the body of the Old Soldier reposed.

It was part of the nation's homage to the 84-year-old warrior who died Sunday at 2:39 p.m. at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D.C., after a gallant struggle to survive three operations.

At the chapel today, only the family and close associates could view the body. The casket, the upper portion open half-way, rested on a black-draped catafalque.

Tuesday, at the 7th Regiment Armory on Park Avenue, the casket will remain open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. so the public can pay their last respects to the man who helped make history at St. Mihiel, Bataan, Corregidor, New Guinea, Manila, Tokyo and Inchon.

At noon today, the traditional 19-gun salute for a five-star general boomed out over New York harbor from Ft. Jay on Governor's Island, facing the southern tip of Manhattan.

On Wednesday, the body will be returned by train to Washington. From 3:30 that afternoon until noon Thursday it will lie in state in the Capitol rotunda, where so recently the body of the martyred President John F. Kennedy also reposed.

Then, by military plane it will be flown to the naval city of Norfolk, Va., for funeral services in St. Paul's Episcopal church and burial in the MacArthur Memorial nearby. All along the funeral journey there will be the military pageantry reserved for the nation's great.

The general had expressed a wish to be buried in Norfolk, because there his mother, the former Mary Pinckney Hardy, was born, reared and married. The city has fashioned, out of a 114-year-old courthouse, a memorial to MacArthur, a museum for his memorabilia, and a mausoleum for his remains.

There are the famous crunched campaign hat, with its scrambled eggs insignia, and one of the corncob pipes that were his trademark.

There, too, above the tomb that will receive him, is this inscription:

"In twenty campaigns, on a hundred battlefields, around a thousand campfires, in long years of peace as well as war—a soldier who tried to do his duty as God gave him the light to see that duty."

Messages of sorrow at MacArthur's passing—and praise for his exploits in World Wars I and II and the Korean "police action"—poured in from around the globe. One, from former President Harry S. Truman, recalled a great controversy with which historians will be wrestling for decades.

"I am deeply sorry at the passing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who has given of himself with exceptional strength and valor and will be remembered as one of the great military men in our history."

On April 11, 1951, as the culmination of great differences in views on how to conduct the Korean War, Truman dismissed MacArthur from all his commands.

The general wanted to carry the war to the Red Chinese—for example by bombing beyond the Yalu River, and unleashing Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists from Formosa. The President believed that would risk dangerous escalation of the war, perhaps into global conflict.

Bloodmobile Visit Set at EUB Church

T. D. Harmon, chairman of the local Red Cross Blood Program, announced today that Thursday's visit of the Bloodmobile will be conducted at a new center.

Harmon said operations will be set up in the Service Center of the First EUB Church, 310 E. Main St. Bloodmobile visits are usually conducted in the basement of the First Methodist Church, but due to a building program there, the Service Center will be used, Harmon explained.

An analysis of blood collections for the first quarter of 1964 shows that Pickaway County has made only 90.4 per cent of its goal. With a goal of 250 pints, only 226 have been collected. Needs continue to be high, because of many serious illnesses and accidents, as well as heart surgeries which are being scheduled in greater numbers, the Blood program chairman said.

Patients in the Columbus region are never billed for the blood they receive, but it is extremely important that each Bloodmobile operation be a complete success, in order that blood may be available when needed, he noted.

Donors may report at the Service Center between the hours of 11 a. m. and 5 p. m. Walk-ins should come, if possible between noon and 2 p. m. in order to avoid waiting in line.

Brazil Congress To Name Chief

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Political battle lines are being drawn for the convening of Congress this week to elect an interim president to serve the remaining 20 months of deposed President Joao Goulart's term.

The shape of the interimgovernment is certain to influence the 1965 presidential race.

Some leaders of last week's coup met in Rio de Janeiro Saturday and agreed to support Gen. Humberto Castelo Branco, army chief of staff, for the interim presidency.

There are no indications who the Social Democrats, largest bloc in Congress, will suport for the interim presidency to succeed Provisional President Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli, who took over last Thursday.

2 Physicians Are Arrested

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)— Belgian authorities arrested two physicians today after the death of a baby as Belgium's doctors' strike went into its sixth day.

Workers paraded in Liege protesting that the doctors were failing in their duty to humanity.

The 10,000 striking physicians held fast to their position and claimed they were being victimized financially by changes in Belgium's health insurance system.

Premier Theo Lefevre's coalition Cabinet scheduled a meeting today in a new effort to resolve the deadlock. Their chances of success seemed slim.

In Olen, in northern Belgium, the mayor, who is a physician, and a second doctor were arrested after the death of 18-month-old Eric Moonsseyen.

The two men were charged with failing to help a person in distress.

Police said the child died from a serious lung condition after waiting six hours for medical treatment.

The striking doctors have established emergency arrangements to treat pressing cases but their opponents claim this is not meeting the needs of the country's nine million people.

Nurses in hospitals complained of being swamped with work. The government asked that Red Cross volunteers be assigned to help hospital personnel.

Members of Choir Victims of Thief

SAUSALITO, Calif. (AP) — Fifteen women members of the Westminister College choir of Salt Lake City, Utah, lost their billfolds and $190 Sunday as they sang in Sausalito's First Presbyterian Church.

The women left their purses in Rev. David Jacobsen's house, where they changed clothes before their guest appearance in his church.

Mrs. Jacobsen said she saw a man in the church choir room during the service and she invited him in. He declined, but accepted her offer of food and a newspaper to read in the Jacobsen's house.

When the choir members returned to the house the man, 13 wallets and the cash were gone.

Khrush Says Only Idiot Does Not Fear Warfare

KAZINCBARCIKA, Hungary (AP) — Soviet Premier Khruschev declared today only a child or an idiot does not fear war and that people who think like the Red Chinese leaders about war "do not show an overabundance of brains." He said he thought U.S. President Johnson had similar views to those of the late President John F. Kennedy, which he called reasonable.

"The Chinese leaders say it would not be a bad thing to have a war — one-half of the people in the world would be destroyed and the other would survive," Khrushchev said in a speech to several thousand workers of a chemical plant in this northeastern Hungarian industrial center.

"They say that after some time women again would bear children and mankind would be as before. People who think like that do not show an overabundance of brains, but rather a lack of them."

Khrushchev said he had been accused by the Chinese of being afraid of war.

"I say it is only a child or an idiot who does not fear war," he declared. "If Hitler had known how World War II would end and that he would shoot himself, he probably would not have started the war."

Khrushchev made his remarks after discarding a prepared text.

"The United States is an imperialist country, but its government judges the world situation soberly," he said, and added that President Kennedy's speech at Washington University last summer in which Kennedy demanded a peaceful solution to East-West problems was a reasonable one.

"Some people have criticized me for praising this speech," Khrushchev said, "It is primitive to think that we are more prudent than all the others. I think that President Johnson has similar views to his predecessor."

Medicare OK Is Predicted By Young

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The Senate will pass the medicare bill in the current session, says Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio.

"I am certain that we in the Senate have the affirmative votes we need to pass this legislation," said Young, adding that "it will become another tribute to the wisdom of President Johnson and the vision of President Kennedy, for he felt the need for medicare in his heart."

Medicare was an issue in 1960 and 1962, but "it should not be an issue in 1964. It should be something we have just accomplished," Young said at a Jefferson Day dinner here Sunday night.

"It is indeed a tragedy," said Young, "that here in the richest nation in the world millions of our citizens live in constant fear their savings will be washed away by prolonged illness or injury."

The Cleveland Democrat had praise for President Johnson's "war on poverty," telling the partisan crowd that "America now is engaged in the greatest of all wars."

Depressed Areas May See Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson may dramatize his anti-poverty campaign with pressed areas of the Appalachian region.

Asked Saturday at his news conference if he had more definite plans, Johnson replied he wants to go to the Appalachian area but that the exact date and the cities to be visited have not been selected. He said he will be busy the early part of this week, but that the visit may be made the latter part of this week.

The Apalachian region embraces all of West Virginia and parts of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama.

Brown Says Glenn Stays On Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown reiterated today that he does not have authority to remove the name of John H. Glenn Jr. from the May 5 primary ballot.

Glenn, who had been a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, withdrew last week because of a head injury suffered in a bathroom fall Feb. 26.

Another candidate, Albert H. Ball of Cleveland, said he plans to ask the Ohio Supreme Court to order Glenn's name be masked out on already printed ballots and programmed voting machines, that it not be printed on those ballots remaining to be run off, and that all "by accident" Glenn votes be disregarded.

Brown, a candidate for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator, said his office cannot order Glenn's name removed because notice came long after the Feb. 15 deadline for withdrawing.

Ike Now Rated Senior General in U.S. Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the death Sunday of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower became the senior general in the U.S. Army.

Eisenhower, who was restored to his five-star rank after he left the presidency, and General of the Army Omar Bradley are the only five-star generals in the Army.

Eisenhower's date of rank is Dec. 20, 1944; Bradley's is Sept. 20, 1950.

Wallace Bids In Wisconsin

'Bama Chief Seeks Backing in Poll

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace's Wisconsin primary election bid highlights a week of political activity that also will include selection in three other states of delegates to the national nominating conventions.

Wallace, challenging the Johnson administration's civil rights program, goes up against Gov. John W. Reynolds, a favorite son, in Tuesday's Wisconsin primary. Delegates representing 30 Republican and 46 Democratic votes will be chosen.

North Dakota Republicans meet Wednesday to choose 14 delegates. Kansas Democrats will complete their 24-vote delegation and Kentucky Republicans choose their 27 delegates at state conventions Saturday.

President Johnson took his first public hand in the Wisconsin contest Sunday night. In a message to Reynolds, he called the Wisconsin governor "a patriot and a leader in whom we can all take pride" and said "I salute John Reynolds for his unceasing concern for the well being of all the people in his state."

Another message came from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who said a successful campaign by Reynolds would "bolster and reinforce those who are making the good fight for human dignity in the United States."

Wallace has been campaigning against the Johnson administration civil rights bill now before the Senate. Political leaders of both parties will be watching closely to see what impact the legislation may have had on the northern state's voters.

After Wallace filed, Reynolds got into the race to protect Wisconsin's 46 votes for President Johnson.

Johnson Believes Morals Improving

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says that "from my observation, there has been an improvement in morals since my day."

In fact, he told a news conference Saturday, "I think I would have made my parents happier if at 16 or 18, or even 20, I had conducted myself to the same high standards of morals as my daughters apply to themselves now."

The President's daughters are Linda Bird, 20, and Luci Baines, 16.

Johnson said the problems of the young should not be overlooked and gave as an example the high unemployment rate of 13 or 15 per cent for teen-agers. "That does contribute to situations that are not too pleasing," he said.

Rail Engineer Killed

WILLIAMS, Ariz. (AP) — An engineer was killed and eight other persons, including four crewmen, were injured when a Santa Fe train was derailed Sunday by a rockslide 15 miles west of here.

Public Lacks in Control Over Military, Claim

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)— Sen. J. W. Fulbright, who only 12 days ago touched off an explosive debate on foreign policy, now says "the American people are not now exercising effective control over the military, and neither is the Congress."

The charge by the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a speech Sunday night at the University of North Carolina seemed almost certain to stir another controversy—this time with the Pentagon.

The Arkansas Democrat's March 25 foreign policy speech richocheted through both halls of Congress, the State Department and the White House. It still is drawing fire in some quarters.

His comments on the military came in a keynote speech to the 1964 Carolina Symposium, a five-day series of lectures at the university on the topic "Arms and the Man: National Security and the Aims of a Free Society."

Fulbright said the military establishment has a vested interest in the continuation of the cold war and its high military spending.

He said the "elimination of superfluous defense funds" would encourage spending on domestic programs, and that "the cold war is an excuse, as well as a cause" for high military budgets.

In his address, Fulbright pursued one of the points of his March 25 Senate speech. He said the nation's interests could be served better by ending the present "morbid preoccupation with the danger of Communist expansion abroad and subversion and disloyalty at home."

He said President Johnson's proposed war on poverty and other education-welfare programs "are at least as important to the security of our country in the long term than a national defense establishment and a good deal more important than a voyage to the moon."

2nd Beckwith Trial Slated

JACKSON, Miss (AP) — Byron De La Beckwith, a crusading segregationist, goes to court today for a retrial on charges he killed Negro integration leader Medgar Evers.

The first trial of the ex-Marine fertilizer salesman from Greenwood, Miss., ended Feb. 7 with a hung jury. The all-white jury had deliberated for 11 tense hours, finally splitting 6-6.

Whites and Negroes alike were surprised. Most had expected a quick acquittal.

Beckwith, 43, is accused of shooting Evers from ambush when the Negro leader returned home last summer from a civil rights meeting. Evers, 37, was state field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The prosecution says it may offer some new evidence in the retrial; the defense refuses to say if it plans any new witnesses or exhibits.

Wits End Cafe's Oven Yields Some Hot Cash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Somewhere there's a thief with $1,500 in hot money on his hands.

The cash—in 5s, 10s and 20s—was taken Sunday from the oven of "The Wits End Restaurant" in northwest Washington.

At wit's end, owner Ben L. Mendelson is giving up on makeshift hiding places and is buying a safe.

Collegians Aroused by New Marshal

GAMBIER, Ohio (AP)—Village officials said it was a protest against "law and order."

Others said it was a protest against the "officiousness" of a newly hired town marshal.

Whatever the case, Kenyon College students demonstrated an estimated 300 strong and upset the customary Sunday peace and quiet of this Knox County community of 1,150.

Until April 1 the county sheriff's department provided virtually all the law enforcement in Gambier. But on April 1, Charles Imel became town marshal—hired to enforce newly stiffened traffic regulations.

Imel began passing out warning tickets, and many students and villagers—began seething.

Sunday, Marshal Imel went to warn a Kenyon student who had parked in a newly designated fire zone. The student talked back, according to the Highway Patrol, and Imel arrested him.

"That's what touched the thing off," a patrolman said.

"The thing" was a noisy spree in which a dozen stop signs reportedly were torn down or "decorated" and students paraded with signs bearing Nazi swastikas and the Communist hammer and sickle, the patrol said.

The demonstration lasted nearly an hour.

Gambier Mayor Leo Wolfe said there were no arrests but that a number of students were taken to the dean's office.

Grand Jury Has Few Cases To Consider

The April term of Pickaway County Grand Jury met today to consider the smallest number of cases ever confronting a grand jury here.

The fifteen jurors were presented only six cases. Court officials commented that even special sessions of a grand jury held in the past have had more than six cases.

Grand jury cases have been held to a minimum since an Ohio law went into effect about two years ago permitting a defendant to waive his rights to possible grand jury indictment and be tried on a bill of information presented by the prosecuting attorney.

Cases being considered include:

Charles Lowery, whose bond had been set at $500, charged with failing to provide for his minor children; Edward Lloyd, bond of $1,500 charged with assault with a deadly weapon; Harold James Cowans, a $2,000 bond, charged with carrying a concealed weapon;

* * *

VIRGINIA BROWN, bond of $500, charged with issuing a check with no account in the bank on which the check was written; Sylvia Jackson, bond of $500, charged with issuing a check with insufficient funds; and Gene Robinson, bond of $1,000 charged with grand larceny.

Court officials indicated the jury would be finished with deliberations by early afternoon.

Serving on the jury are Richard Pettit, foreman, Betty Drake, Ruth LaFontaine, Hazel Marie Hudson, Jay Creamer, Clarence M. Barnes, Gerald G. Woodward, Mary Duvall, Betty W. Karn, Paul R. Dawson, Larry Ward, Virginia Hulse, Donald Frazier, Ralph E. Dunkel and Harry N. Smith.

A resolution turning over a street in the Jefferson Subdivision to the Pickaway Twp. Trustees was adopted today by the County Board of Commissioners.

The street, bordering the southern perimeter of the subdivision, is known as Ludwig Drive. Actual construction involved a section of existing Jefferson Ave.

The inspectors ruled that the street met specifications and provisions as set forth in county subdivision regulations. The street extends 1950 feet and is 20 feet wide.

IN OTHER business, the county solons made plans to attend a special meeting tomorrow in Columbus concerning the effect of an Athens County Common Pleas Court decision forced accounts. The session, sponsored by the County Commissioners Assn. of Ohio, will open at 1:30 p. m. in the Deshler-Hilton.

The court's ruling pertains to a recent case in which the Athens County Board of Commissioners used a forced account procedure in getting bridge work completed. Opponents contended the construction should have been done by competitive bidding as required by law.

Purpose of the meeting, according to the Commissioner Assn., is to establish, as nearly as possible, a uniform concept for the force account procedure throughout the state.

The Pickaway solons indicated that the county prosecutor and assistant engineer also will attend the meeting.

MacArthur's Long Career in Army Was Built on Many Colorful Events

EDITOR'S NOTE — Associated Press writer Relman Morin, winner of two Pulitzer Prizes, has written a four-part series on the life and career of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur. The articles deal with MacArthur's career in the Army, with MacArthur the man, with his controversial leadership during the Korean conflict and with scenes of bravery from his life. Here is the first: MacArthur's Army career.

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Writer

"Peace hath its victories no less renowned than war."

Toward 1:30 in the afternoon, people began to gather on the sidewalk. They clustered on both sides of the steps leading to the main entrance of the Dai Ichi Insurance Co. building in downtown Tokyo.

Presently, a tall man hurried through the high-lintelled entrance. He walked with long, swinging strides. He returned the salutes of the two giant American sentries — always specially chosen for stature — and went down the steps, two at a time, to a waiting limousine.

You heard a murmur, "Mah-kah-sah."

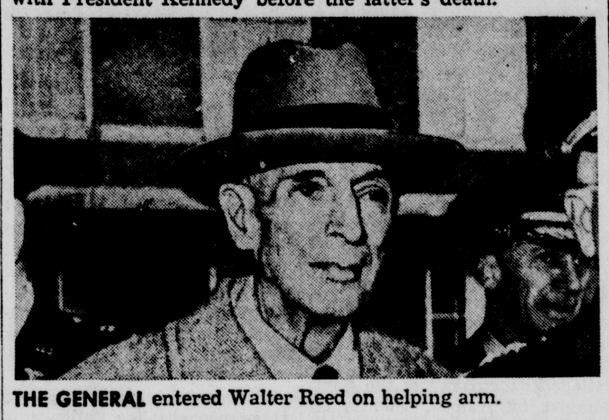
The people were Japanese and they pronounced the man's name in Japanese fashion, "Mah-kah-sah."

A man lifted a little girl to his shoulder so that she could see over the crowd. Some bowed. There were instances when very old-fashioned Japanese would kneel, touching their foreheads on the sidewalk in the "ko-tow," the traditional Oriental act of obeisance.

They had come to see Gen. Douglas MacArthur. This was in September 1945.

This was during the years of the American military occupation of Japan. MacArthur, directing it, worked seven days a week and not infrequently seven nights a week. He kept more or less regular office hours. The Tokyo people became aware of his schedule. Thus, through more than five years, the odd little tableau on the sidewalk repeated itself every day.

SEVERAL MEETINGS brought MacArthur together with President Kennedy before the latter's death.



THE GENERAL entered Walter Reed on helping arm.

Ordinary curiosity no doubt prompted it in part.

Here was the conqueror. Here was the man who had destroyed a mystic belief, held for nearly 2,000 years, that Japan was invincible in war. And here was the supreme authority in Japan, Zeus Olympias in the uniform of the United States Army.

At the time, MacArthur's gigantic image rested largely on his record as a soldier.

"MacArthur was the greatest general and best strategist that the war produced. He certainly outshone Marshall, Eisenhower and all other American and British generals including Montgomery."

The estimate comes from Field Marshal Lord Alan-Brooke, wartime chief of the British Imperial General Staff, a man not given to lavishing praise on other commanders.

Even before World War II, however, MacArthur had become almost a living legend. He broke records, right and left.

There was the story that, on entering West Point, he announced two objectives—to finish at the head of his class, and to end his military career as chief of staff.

In accomplishing the first, he racked up a 98.14 percent average for four years in all subjects. It was never surpassed.

Later, he fulfilled the second objective. But his career did not end there.

There was the story that he also broke a nonscholastic record at the academy. Allegedly, MacArthur became engaged to eight girls at the same time. The previous mark had been seven.

There were innumerable stories of his personal courage, his reckless exposure to fire in battle. MacArthur commanded the 84th Infantry Brigade of the Rainbow Division in World War I, and an associate said, "MacArthur is certain to go far in the Army if he doesn't get himself killed."

At 39, he was the youngest officer ever appointed superintendent of the Military Academy.

At 45, when he received his second star, he was the youngest major general in the Army.

He was only 50 when, true to his alleged prediction, he became chief of staff.

Five years later, when his military career presumably ended with retirement from this high office, he was summoned to the Philippines to organize the armed forces there. President Manuel Quezon gave him the rank of field marshal.

So, years before Pearl Harbor, MacArthur's reputation was larger than life size.

But it was, essentially, the reputation of a soldier.

As director of the occupation of Japan, starting in the fall of 1945, he confronted a wholly different problem. It was more complex, more difficult, and potentially more dangerous than any of the military assignments he ever tackled.

And it may well be that, in assaying MacArthur's prodigious accomplishments, historians will count his stewardship of the occupation as the most brilliant of all his victories.

Consider the magnitude of the task.

The war left Japan physically battered. Thousands of homes had been destroyed. Hundreds of factories were out of action. Railroads and highways had been macerated and coastwise shipping all but paralyzed. Dislocated water and sanitation systems raised the spectre of epidemics in the cities.

These were physical problems that had to be swiftly resolved.

Even more delicate were the many-sided political and social problems.

For 50 years, Japan had been leading a kind of schizophrenic existence — half-feudal, half-modern. Parliamentary forms, borrowed from the West, had been grafted, but not successfully, on political traditions from the Middle Ages.

The Diet had been merely a debating society. Elections had been all but meaningless. Real power, owing to a curleycue in the constitution, was vested in the hands of the armed forces.

What kind of a constitution should now be written, what was to be the status of the emperor? How, in short, could Japan be transformed into at least a nominally democratic society?

Before the war, authoritarianism had spread a heavy hand over other areas of Japanese life as well.

Giant cartels, the "Zaibatsu," controlled most of the industry and commerce. Labor unions had been a joke. In agriculture, only about 10 per cent of the farmers owned their own land; the majority worked as tenants.

How to change these long-established patterns?

The stakes were great. Japan is the most highly industrialized nation in the Far East. Potentially, it is a military powerhouse, the counterbalance to Communist China.

When the occupation ended, would it remain aligned with the West? Or would it drift into the Communist orbit? Much depended on MacArthur's decisions during the occupation. Military genius and training, alone, would not meet this great challenge.

Fortunately, MacArthur knew the history, the traditions, the psychology and the spirit of the efficient and enigmatic Japanese. When he was 24, he had gone to Japan with his father, Gen. Arthur MacArthur. During the Russo-Japanese war, he marched as an observer with Count Maresuki Nogi's troops in the bloody battle of Mukden. He had studied the Japanese in war and peace all his life.

He brought this background and understanding to bear on the delicate tasks of the occupation.

For one thing, he did not govern by fiat. A military man might be expected to simply issue iron-clad orders and demand that they be carried out at all cost. To have done this in Japan would only have aroused hostility and invisible but bitter resistance — much to the satisfaction of the Japanese Communists.

MacArthur operated more subtly. He used a mixture of argument, persuasion, cajolement and threats to get what he wanted. He stayed behind the scenes as much as possible.

In addition, he consciously played a role.

Respect for authority is one of the deepest well-springs in Japanese character. For centuries, the smallest local lords, let alone the great shoguns and clan leaders, had commanded almost blind obedience from their retainers.

So MacArthur deliberately assumed the visage of an overlord, a grand seigneur, of the all-powerful proconsul. He became in Japanese eyes a kind of imperial figure.

The occupation was MacArthur's greatest task. It may well be regarded as the greatest of all his achievements.

Next: MacArthur the man.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur had brains, character, fabulous courage, grace, and a special quality which some men have had from antiquity. Anthropologists call it mana.

It means extraordinary magnetism and power to impress. Mixed with it was egoism. And this produced his personal disaster when he let the egoism collide with his judgment in disobeying the President.

It was a humiliating end to one of the most glamorous military records in American history, 52 years of service, longer than the combined military service of George Washington, Ulysses S. Grant and Andrew Jackson.

His battles in three wars were like a catalogue of encounters from the Iliad: The Marne, Meuse-Argonne, St. Mihiel, Sedan; Bataan, Corregidor, New Guinea, Leyte, Lingayen Gulf, Borneo, Luzon; Pusan, Inchon, Yalu River.

If he wore his decortions, which ranged down from the Medal of Honor, he would have been as resplendent as Achilles' shield. But he didn't wear them. This, one writer said, was part of his ostentation.

John Gunther, impressed by the "immense force of his character," quotes an officer as saying MacArthur was the only man in the world "who could walk into a room full of drunks and all would be sober in five minutes."

MacArthur was dramatic—arrogant, his critics said—and in his years of heading the occupation forces in Japan he stood as aloof as a mikado. But he had a glistening sense of history, including his own, and no wonder.

He traced his ancestry back to Scotland's clan MacArthur which, he said in Life magazine, finds a place in the "heroic lore of King Arthur and his knights of the round table."

One entranced biographer even made him an eighth cousin of Sir Winston Churchill, a sixth cousin of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and a descendant of Charlemagne.

King Arthur of the myth slew monsters with names like Twrch Trwyth. MacArthur's monsters were Russians, Red Chinese, and those in Washington he thought were conspiring to frustrate and undercut him.

The clan MacArthur and its pride came down through his father, Lt. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, who in the Civil War at Missionary Ridge won the Medal of Honor and became colonel of his regiment by the time he was 20.

So from childhood soldiers were respectful to Douglas MacArthur, son of a general. Remembering this, one admiring officer who served under MacArthur in the Pacific in World War II said:

"If MacArthur never had the common touch, it's because he was never a common man himself. He was being called 'sir' from the time he was 3."

He became a symbol, the phoenix of the American spirit rising from the ashes of calamity when the Japanese drove him out of the Philippines and he said "I shall return," and did.

He was 70 when the Korean war began June 25, 1950. Victory would have been the soaring finish to the military symphony of his life. But the music soured, victory eluded him, and in seeking it he made mistakes of judgment.

First, he had an optimistic misunderstanding of the enemy, perhaps because he wished so hard to win.

He thought all he had to do was whip the North Koreans, that the war would be over by Christmas, that the Chinese would not come in. He was wrong on all counts.

Then his egoism overcame him. He pitted himself against President Harry S. Truman who had ordered him not to assert publicly his ideas on how to win the war. MacArthur didn't listen, didn't obey.

His ideas differed from Truman's. He wanted, among other things, to bomb the Chinese bases in Manchuria. Truman and his advisers feared this might mean World War III, with the Soviet Union coming in on China's side.

Truman considered MacArthur insubordinate and his statements injurious to the conduct of the war and relations with allies. Thus it became a contest between a general and his commander-in-chief, the president.

MacArthur lost, was fired. This time there was no return. Even in the legend the phoenix came out of the ashes only once.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, there is now an excellent chance you can stop your hair loss and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a Texas firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to satisfy everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Actually, there are many scalp conditions that can cause hair loss. No matter which one is the cause of your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair (or at least some fuzz) on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it, before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered promptly, by mail and without obligation. Adv.

Latin Outlook

Each year on the anniversary of the Alliance for Progress United States officialdom takes stock of the achievements and failures. Depending upon the point of view, the Alliance is generally unequivocally praised or damned.

State Department officials traditionally view any aid program through rose-tinted glasses, and Latin aid programs are no exception. Congress, which has to answer to the electorate periodically for the funds it allocates, is more skeptical about some of the results obtained with funds already spent and more conservative on future appropriations.

Even an objective observer, if any remains, would have a difficult time assessing the overall effect of the alliance. The alliance is now entering its fourth year and some conclusions, observations and recommendations for improvement should be possible.

When the alliance was launched in March 1961, Latin America was in the midst of another of its periodic revolutionary upheavals. The Dominican Republic, Haiti, Venezuela, Argentina, Brazil, Bolivia and of course Cuba were undergoing severe political turmoils which saw constitutional procedures and processes torn into so much confetti.

Cautiously, one may point out that no such convulsions are now underway. Cuba remains a despicable dictatorship and outpost for communism in the Western Hemisphere. But even there the wholesale executions have slowed to a trickle and Castro no longer makes any pretense about exposing himself to the approval of an electorate.

Political stability is a prerequisite for any lasting improvement in productivity, living standards, investment capital or any of the other facets of nternational economic cooperation so badly needed.

This is not to overlook the crisis which continues to build up in Brazil, and which most certainly will lead to disaster if that country's runaway inflation and political indecision are not soon remedied. Nor is the fact to be overlooked that only half of the Latin countries achieved an economic growth of 2.5 per cent — the minimum goal of the alliance — last year.

Big Boost to Boom

General Motors has committed $2 billion to new and modernized plants in the next two years, to enlarge production capacity in the United States and Canada by 20 per cent. Included in the plans is an employment increase of 50,000 in the U. S.

The big auto maker expects output in the U. S. to reach at least 10 million vehicles yearly by 1970, and obviously will be ready to continue making more than 50 per cent of the total, as has been the pattern for a number of years.

This is not a guess or a prediction. General Motors will spend the money, and with that kind of industrial activity under way, is there anyone to doubt the economy will continue on its upward course?

'64 Babies To See Year 2035

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

A baby who smiles a hello at life in 1964 shouldn't sigh his final goodby until 2035.

All right, fellows, let's quit joshing and snap to attention and give a salute: This is the 30th anniversary of the invention of the comic book, a hallmark of our culture.

This is a scientific way of saying that college graduates with a pocketful of dough can afford to live it up.

Personal item: Everybody is born nameless and then goes on to gain the prestige of being known by a series of numbers. Although my mother still stubbornly calls me Harold, to Uncle Sam I am 495-01-2977. I rather envy the two hyphens in my number. They give me a feeling of spaciousness, and I must confess to a certain vanity. Don't you think also that 495-01-2977 has a kind of lilt to it? I'd hate to be called by any other number.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

GROUCHO MARX, rehearsing for a musical that turned out to be one of his greatest hits ("Coconuts") tried to insert a joke of his own, but librettist George Kaufman wasn't having any part of it. "I'll bet they'd laugh at it," insisted Groucho. "Don't forget they laughed at Bell and his telephone." Demurred Kaufman, "Not at matinees!"

"Are you quite sure," asked a customs official loudly to a lady on the dock, "that you have nothing to declare?" "Absolutely sure," insisted the lady. "Am I to understand, then," continued the official much more loudly, "that the fur tail hanging down from under your dress is your own?"

In her memorable book, "The Guns of August," Barbara Tuchman gives a perfect thumbnail description of the type of monocled, arrogant Prussian general who led German armies in World War I. The general in question was named Count von Schlieffen, and his mind was concentrated so utterly on war that when an aide on a peacetime outing once pointed out to him the beauty of the river Pregel sparkling in the early morning sun, the General commented curtly, "An unimportant obstacle!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The loveliness of spring can be marred for many people because allergies, too, begin to "blossom" with the first buds.

The word "allergy" has been used so frequently, and even promiscuously, that its real meaning may not be clearly understood.

Allergy is the unusual reaction of the body tissues in some people who are exposed to usual or unusual substances. This exposure may be to foods, drugs, inhalants, contactants or physical agents like heat and cold.

The substance that an allergic individual is sensitive to is called an allergen.

The biological effects of allergens and the reactions they produce are highly complicated. For the allergic patient, it is sufficient to know that allergy can show itself as hay fever, asthma, intestinal disturbances, skin hives and in other diffuse ways.

Hay fever is a seasonal form of allergy produced by windborne pollen. Hay fever is the general term that applies to reactions to plants anl trees that flourish i.. the spring, the summer and the fall. It does not mean sensitivity to "hay", and it is not necessarily associated with fever.

Spring allergies are most commonly caused by the tree pollen of maples, elms, oaks a and birches.

The symptoms of nasal congestion, running nose, repeated bouts of sneezing and itching eyes are so characteristic that the patient almost always know his trouble.

Sometimes it is difficult to determine the exact offending allergen. Doctors often obtain clues simply from the time of year in which attacks occur

Skin testing is useful in determining allergens. A variety of techniques is available, each carefully chosen for its special advantages.

When a particular allergen is discovered, the patient can be de-sensitized in one of three ways by small, repeated injections. The in-season method is used while the patient is having hay fever symptoms.

The pre-season method of desensitization starts about eight weeks before the expected time of the onset of symptoms.

The perennial method consists of an all-year-round de-sensitization to know offending pollens or other allergens.

Treatment for "hay fever" allergies also includes the use of antihistamines and, in unusual cases, the cortisones.

The particular choice of treatment is individually made by the physician according to the specific needs of his allergic patient.

Intensive studies are in progress in an effort to unravel the mysterious complexities of mild and severe allergic responses.

Some institutions already report highly scccessful results with a single preventative injection for complete de - sensitization of the allergic patient.

There are indications that the severe complications of allergies like asthma may soon be prevented and totally controlled.

What Does Oregon Want?

By John Chamberlain

Truly, the involutions of U.S. politics in 1964 are enough to tax the comprehension of the immortal gods on Olympus.

Item One concerns the strange behavior of four important Far Western Democratic Senators. Here we have Wayne Morse of Oregon, Mike Mansfield of Montana, Ernest Gruening of Alaska, and Frank Church of Idaho going Senator Fulbright of Arkansas one better in voicing their dissent from the foreign policy of their own Democratic Administration. They want us to get out of South Vietnam.

Item Two concerns the predictions of pundits concerning the fate of Barry Goldwater in the coming Oregon primary. Some of them have both Goldwater and Rockefeller running behind Nixon in Oregon. Others speak of a second "upset victory" for Lodge.

The point that must perplex the gods is that both Nixon and Lodge would certainly support the Johnson Administration's policy in South Vietnam as against the Morse-Mansfield - Gruening - Church position. Indeed, both Nixon and Lodge would presumably go beyond the mere protection of South Vietnam. Nixon, just prior to the French capitulation in Indo - China, was for sending American forces to hold the North Vietnamese bastion of Dienbienphu; and Lodge, so it has been stated by his friends in Washington, would like to see the current war to save South Vietnam carried into the north against the "privileged sanctuary" of the Communist infiltrators. This is on the assumption that the Johnson - McNamara policy of fighting a defensive war on South Vietnamese soil cannot assure victory.

The question, at this point, is: does Senator Morse read his mail, and if so, are the letters that reach his office a good indication of sentiment in Oregon? If Morse really knows what the Oregon consensus, is how will it spill over into the Republican primary?

One doorbell ringer in Oregon, Mr. Samuel Lubbell, in quoting people as saying that Goldwater might "get us into a war," inferentially backs up Morse. But no Republican candidate on the ballot in Oregon approximates the Morse position in the business of running away from war. By Morse standards, which the Senator would have us believe are Oregon standards, all of the Republican candidates are dangerous warmongers. Even including Scranton, who has kind words for "brinkmanship."

The doorbell ringers and pundits make much of specific Oregon objections to Goldwater as "irresponsible" on the military issue. This is curious when one looks over the whole Republican field. The Lodge caravan, which is currently moving into Oregon armed with 350,000 pamphlets ready for distribution, counts on its tiger's appeal as the man who stood up to Vishinsky in the UN and who insists on victory in the Far East today. Yes, as Goldwater said (in the title of one of his books), "Why Not Victory?" So why any Oregon distinction between Goldwater and Lodge? Yet the doorbell ringers in Oregon profess to have found a distinction.

To the south, in California, Goldwater has the inside track precisely because he is campaigning as a patriot who is tired of seeing the U. S. sold down the river abroad. This makes the attempt of the Rockefellerites to brand Goldwater as the victim of "extremists" a futile tactic. It is not considered "extreme" in California to be aggressively patriotic. But how about the states of the Far Northwest that are represented by Senators Morse, Gruening, Church, and Mansfield?

The whole business smacks of Alice in Wonderland. But underneath the confusion one senses a polarization. The four Democratic Senators from the Far Northwest, along with Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, are betting that the U. S. hungers for pacifism and counts on Khrushchev and even Mao Tse-tung as being amenable to reason. The important Republicans, from Goldwater on the "Right" to Lodge and Nixon in the "Center" and Rockefeller on the "Left," doubt that either Khrushchev or Mao can be had. Ironically, Lyndon Johnson, as Lodge's boss in South Vietnam, is currently Lodge's patron.

The Oregon Republican primary will actually clear up nothing about foreign policy, for there is no pacifist Republican candidate. But Senator Morse, by implication, is saying that foreign policy is the transcendent issue. As for Johnson, he can repudiate nothing until next November. Will he want to then? The four Democratic Senators from the Far Northwest are betting that he will.

Gallant Soldier...

Beginning last March 6, the general had undergone operations at Walter Reed for removal of his gall bladder, his spleen and an eight-foot section of intestine. Since Friday night he had lain in coma.

When he died, his wife, the former Jean Marie Faircloth of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and their son Arthur, 26, were grieving at the bedside. They had seen much history at MacArthur's side.

For example, that tragic night of March 11, 1942, with Japanese artillery and planes pounding Corregidor to a pulp. By presidential order, MacArthur left the Philippines, going in the misty darkness aboard a wooden PT-boat and taking with him his wife and son, then 4.

He vowed "I shall return"—named Corregidor as a "Holy Grail" to be regained—and he kept his promise.

As the family left Walter Reed Hospital to begin the motor journey to New York Sunday night, Mrs. MacArthur leaned out to console a red-eyed, grieving nurse who had attended the general in his last hours.

The 12-car motorcade moved at a sedate 45-50 miles an hour up the broad turnpikes to New York. At tollgates, state troopers with illuminated torches waved it on, without payment of tolls.

MacArthur during his career made soldierly history. At West Point, he averaged 98.14 in his studies—the highest ever scored—and he collected in war the Medal of Honor and five Distinguished Service Medals.

He was born in Little Rock Ark., Jan. 26, 1880, the son of Lt. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, a Civil War veteran. In World War I, he created and led the crack Rainbow Division — the 42nd. He was gassed and wounded.

As war clouds gathered for the second global conflict, he was relieved from U.S. Army duty to become a field marshal of the Philippines and train those islanders for defense.

When the islands fell, he went to Australia and, as supreme Allied commander in the Southwest Pacific, pushed the great offensives, including the island-hopping campaigns, that finally helped bring Japan to her knees.

As Allied occupation commander in the beaten empire, he became a sort of super-emperor—operating partly behind the scenes to foster democracy and a peaceful spirit. One Japanese newspaper once remarked that many Japanese regarded him as "a living god."

But MacArthur did not, of course, so regard himself. To an American church group, which praised his policies in Japan. He remarked: "Though I am a Caesar, I rendered unto God that which was his."

Always, throughout his 52-year Army career, he pronounced himself a hater of war. With the growth of nuclear weapons, he said: "Science has clearly outmoded war as a feasible arbiter."

The Japanese government sent the nation's most beloved elder statesman, former Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, to represent Japan at MacArthur's funeral.

"I cannot forget the great achievement of the general in rebuilding our nation out of the ashes of defeat," said Yoshida.

"Out of the stringent food shortages, out of the confusion of our political, economic and social systems, and out of the insecurity of men's hearts, MacArthur laid the foundations for a new Japan which became the source of our nation's prosperity today."

In a message to President Johnson, Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda said the Japanese respected MacArthur "not only as a soldier but as a friend." Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako also sent their condolences.

On the streets of Japan, people remembered MacArthur particularly for bringing in huge quantities of food in the immediate postwar months to feed a destitute population.

In the Philippines, where MacArthur's wartime pledge "I shall return" gave hope during the Japanese occupation, President Diosdado Macapagal declared a period of national mourning.

"A source of courage in our darkest hour, Gen. MacArthur symbolized the highest degree of Philippine - American friendship and affection," Macapagal said in a message to Johnson. "Your loss is our loss. His name is deeply engraved in the hearts of all Filipinos."

South Korea's President Chung Hee Park said Koreans will remember MacArthur forever for "his contributions toward their independence and democracy."

"Not only the United States but the whole world has lost a most outstanding soldier and one of the greatest of statesmen," Park said.

Korea was the scene of MacArthur's last military campaign. He was removed from command of the U.N. forces in Korea in 1951 for opposing President Harry S. Truman's decision to limit the coflict to Korea.

New Zealand's Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake memorialized MacArthur as "one of the greatest commanders of the last war."

An Indian government spokesman said MacArthur was "one of those few great generals who proved themselves even greater administrators."

In Canberra, Australian Prime Minister Sir Robert G. Menzies said MacArthur was "undoubtedly a great soldier, a man of remarkable talents and personality and he has an assured place in Australian history."

British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home described MacArthur as "one of the great soldiers of our time."

"In Britain, in the darkest days of the war, we admired the courage and tenacity of purpose which brought him up from defeat at Corregidor to lead the Allied forces to victory in the Pacific," Douglas-Home said.

House Placement Show Staged By Shawnee Arrangers' Club

The home of Mrs. Karl Seyfarth, 425 Wood Lane, was the setting for a display of spring flower arrangements. The house placement show, staged by the Shawnee Arrangers' Club, introduced a concept in flower shows new to the Circleville area.

Members made arrangements for specific areas of Mrs. Seyfarth's home on Friday in keeping with the decor and theme of the show, "Spring is Poetry". Each room contained one or two classes, with the blue ribbon entry placed in the spot for which it was designated and the other entries displayed throughout the house.

The entrance hall was entitled "The year's at the spring and day's at the morn". Mrs. Luther Bower was the winner with her entry of bare black branches with deep yellow Dutch iris in a bronze cylinder container. Mrs. Schubert Measamer was second; Mrs. Charles Thompson, third; and Mrs. Ned Harden, honorable mention.

An arrangement for the dining room table was titled "Spring with her golden suns and silver rain is with us once again". Mrs. Measamer's entry of eucalyptus foliage, white snapdragons and yellow roses in an old gold compote was first; Mrs. Ray Carroll, third; and Mrs. C. K. Vaughan, honorable mention.

In the living room, a coffee table arrangement and one for a console table were both titled "come fill the cup, and in the fire of spring your winter garment of repentance fling". In the console table class, Mrs. Vaughan won the blue ribbon with her entry of apricot colored roses, bronze and wine mahonia foliage, and pussy willows in a pewter washed copper chalice cup. Second, Mrs. Thompson; third, Mrs. Ned Harden; honorable mention, Mrs. Ted Huston.

For the coffee table, Mrs. Luther Bower's crescent arrangement was first. Daffodils and pussy willows were combined in a Lennox bowl. Mrs. Carroll was third; and Mrs. James Moffitt received honorable mention.

The title for the class in the den was "With calm patience of the woods I wait for leaf and blossom when, God gives me Spring." Mrs. Thompson won first prize in this class and also "Best of Show" for her entry of orange carnations with twisted branches of high bush cranberry in a pewter washed copper urn. Second, Mrs. John Eshelman; third, Mrs. Bower; honorable mention, Mrs. Measamer.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

It Will Never Do, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: While sitting in my dentist's outer office yesterday, a smartly dressed woman came in with her daughter, who appeared to be four or five years old. The mother wore a wool suit and a full-length coat with a fur collar, as it was exceptionally cold and windy for this time of year. The child wore a short organdy dress, anklets and a short jacket. She looked like a little doll, but her lips were blue and quivering and she was sniffling. I wanted to say something to the mother for disregarding the child's health and comfort for the sake of beauty. After my opportunity had passed I berated myself for not having said something. I could hardly sleep last night for worrying about that poor child. Should I call the dentist's nurse and ask her who the woman was, and write her an enonymous note? Maybe seeing it in writing would bring her to her senses?

COULDN'T SLEEP

DEAR COULDN'T: No. If you start letting this kind of other people's business bother you, you will NEVER get any sleep.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please describe the proper way to hold a fork while cutting with the knife? My husband holds his like a catapult. Perpendicular, at right angles to his plate. Our grown children have mentioned it to me, but I hate to hurt his feelings. I've searched through all the etiquette books, hoping to find a picture, but to no avail. Shouldn't somebody tell him?

"MRS."

DEAR MRS.: It is surprising how many well-mannered people with most of the social graces lack this one. Yes, somebody should tell him. Allow me? The fork should be held with all the fingers gently wrapped around it, except the index finger and thumb, which should hold it down near the neck at an angle of 45 degrees or less.

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. M. ON ALLEN STREET: Yes, there is help for you. Please send me your address, complete with city and state, and I will wire my reply at once.

Royals Lose Third Game To Celtics

Big O, Lucas Regain Form, but Magic Is Gone

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oscar Robertson has regained his scoring touch and Jerry Lucas is rebounding again but the magic is gone and so, it appears, are the Cincinnati Royals.

The Boston Celtics, shooting for a sixth straight National Basketball Association championship, trimmed the Royals 102-92 Sunday night and need one more victory for an unprecedented four-game sweep of the Eastern Division final playoff series.

In the Western Division finals, the St. Louis Hawks shrugged off a 46-point effort by San Francisco's Wilt Chamberlain and edged the Warriors 113-109 for a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven set.

Robertson broke out of a "slump" to score 34 points and Lucas, despite an ailing back, grabbed 24 rebounds. But the Royals shot only 33 per cent from the field and Boston broke the game open before halftime.

Bill Russell led a second-quarter rally that left Cincinnati 18 points behind at intermission. The Royals missed 40 of 51 shots in the first half. Russell finished with 22 points and 28 rebounds.

A goaltending call against Chamberlain, who scored San Francisco's last five points, and two free throws each by Bob Pettit and Richie Guerin in the closing minutes kept St. Louis ahead of the fast-closing Warriors.

Charlie Vaughn came off the St. Louis bench and contributed several key baskets.

Pettit topped a balanced attack with 26 points. Vaughn and Beatty had 22 each and Guerin added 19.

The fourth games in the two series will be played at Cincinnati Tuesday and St. Louis Wednesday.

The Royals hit only 22 per cent of their shots—11 of 51—in the first half as they dropped behind, 55-37. Arlen Bockhorn's surge in the third quarter helped them improve the average to 33 per cent—34 of 103—for the full game, but it was too little and too late.

The Celtics were well in command after the first quarter.

The Celts themselves had no outstanding shooting average—41 per cent — but they had not streaks from Billy Russell, John Havlicek, Willie Naulls and others.

Both Red Auerbach, Celtics coach, and Jack McMahon, Royals' coach, were inclined to give major credit to the Boston defense but the fact remains the Royals missed a lot of good shots.

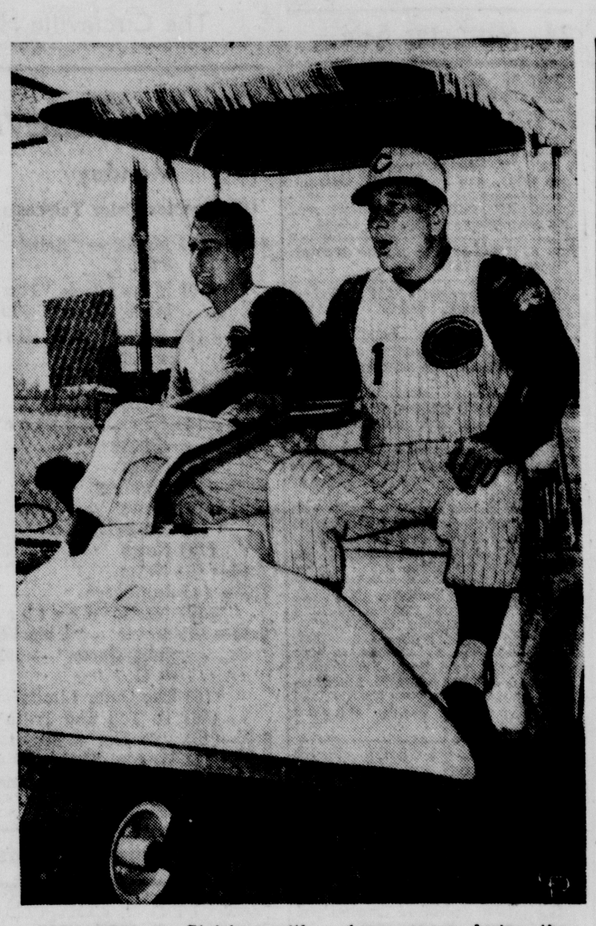
"This was one of the greatest defensive efforts I've ever seen," said Auerbach. "If Bockhorn hadn't gotten that hot hand we would have beaten them by 30 at least."

Auerbach still insisted he was not counting out the Royals and said, "They just didn't do anything right tonight, but we didn't let them either."

McMahon's comment was: "They beat us with aggressive defense. We gave up the ball too often. We played right into Boston's hands — standing around, holding the ball. You cannot do that against an aggressive defense."

He praised the performance of rookie Jerry Lucas, who has been under par for the first two games of the playoff because of an ailing back.

Lucas, regaining his ability to jump and rebound, almost matched the efforts of Boston's great Russell in the rebound department. Lucas had 24 and Russell 28.



EASY DOES IT—Stricken with a lung cancer during the winter, but apparently recovered, manager Fred Hutchinson (right) of the Cincinnati Reds takes it easy in camp at Tampa, Fla., using this vehicle to get around the various diamonds. With him is coach Reggie Otero.

110-Round Ring Battle Recorded 71 Years Ago

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Two boxers slugged it out in a ring for seven hours and 20 minutes in New Orleans exactly 71 years ago today.

Referee John Duffy called it a draw—no contest—after neither Andy Bowen nor Jack Burke threw a punch in the 110th round.

The 110-round bout still stands as the longest glove fight on record.

"There was no way of forcing the men to fight," said Duffy.

Bowen, 129, of New Orleans, and Burke, 130, of Galveston, Tex., fought that night for the lightweight championship of the South.

Some 8,500 fight fans were on hand at the start. Many were still there when Duffy ended it at 3:45 a.m., although "a number were asleep," according to the Daily Picayune's account of the battle.

Bowen was a veteran fighter, ranked as one of the top lightweights in the South. Burke, who broke his wrists in the bout, was a green newcomer.

Both began slowing down as the rounds began mounting. After the 50th, the crowd started whistling "Home Sweet Home."

"Why don't you fight?" Bowen asked Burke after the 51st round.

"I cannot, both of my hands are gone," Burke replied.

Bowen scored the only knockdowns in the contest but also went down three times himself—one in a clinch, and twice when he lost his balance after missing Burke with wild, swinging punches.

The Olympic Boxing Club decided to split the $2,500 purse equally between the two fighters.

Just a month later Bowen fought another long bout—defeating Jack Everhardt in an 85-round bout which lasted five hours, 35 minutes.

In another 18 months, Bowen was dead. In a fight Dec. 14, 1894, with George (Kid) Lapigne in New Orleans, Bowen was knocked out in the 18th. He suffered a concussion when his head struck the floor. He died the next day.

It was the only fight Bowen ever lost. He fought 26 times from 1887 until his death, winning 18 times—seven by knockouts—and fighting to draws six times and a no decision once.

Long Sets Mark For Shot Put

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dallas Long broke his own world shot put record Saturday, but he is still left with ambitions today—two of them.

The 260-pound giant heaved the 16-pound ball 65 feet, 11½ inches—exactly one inch beyond his record set in 1962 — in the opening event of a track meet between Occidental College and the Pasadena Athletic Association.

Now he wants to win an Olympic gold medal in Tokyo this summer—he finished third in the 1960 Olympics — and he wants to hit 68 feet.

Both goals appear to be within easy reach of the former University of Southern California weightman.

Boros Wins At Greensboro

Pro Golfers Aim At Big Masters

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Julius Boros generated a hot 66 in a 45-degree temerature to catch Doug Sanders and then went on to beat him in a one-hole playoff in winning the Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament Sunday. It was a sharp final competitive tuneup for the Masters Championship.

Last year when Jack Nicklaus won at Augusta, Boros finished third, two shots off the pace.

The 44-year-old U.S. Open champion said "I'm putting much better than last year, although I'm not playing as well otherwise as I did at Augusta. With my improved putting and this win behind me, maybe I can go down there with greater confidence."

Nicklaus, who defends the Masters title starting Thursday, began the final round here with a three-shot edge over his nearest rivals and was five in front of Boros.

But Nicklaus shot a double bogey 5 on the third hole and struggled the rest of the way. He finished two over par with 73 for 279 and fourth place.

Another Masters favorite, Arnold Palmer, ended in a tie for 13th place with 286. He shot par 71 for his final trip over the 7,000-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

Boros accepted the $6,600 top prize money with the notation, "We have five children down in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and can use it." He won an additional $400 for the low score of the final round.

Tournament sponsors boosted the prize money an additional $10,000 Saturday night after three days of record crowds.

Boros, with rounds of 68-70-73-66 for a 277 total, was seven under par. Sanders shot 277 in 73-70-66-68. He won $3,800 in defense of the title he won last spring.

Golf Opener Foiled Again

Weather once again halted opening play Saturday for the Circleville High School golf team.

A triangular meet with Pleasant View and Wilmington was called because of wet grounds at the Pickaway Country Club.

It marks the fifth time this season the Tiger linksmen have been forced to either cancel or postpone matches.

7 Sprint Cars Crash In Ohio Race Opener

ROSSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Seven sprint cars cracked up in three accidents during Sunday's U.S. Automobile Club Midwest season-opening races at El Dora Speedway, but none of the drivers incurred more than cuts and bruises.

The 30-lap, 15 - mile main event, held up after one lap because of a mishap, went to Johnny Rutherford of Fort Worth, Tex. Rutherford, earning $900 of the $5,000 purse, never trailed and beat Bobby Marshman of Pottstown, Pa., by one-third of a lap.

Ohioan Is Selected As Festival Princess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's 1964 princess of the upcoming Cherry Blossom Festival, Miss Judith Ayres, was honored at a reception Sunday attended by about 250 Washingtonians. Judith is the daughter of Rep. William Ayres, Akron Republican, and Mrs. Ayres.

Indians Seek To Fill Right Field Position

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) —The right field job with the Cleveland Indians still appeared to be wide open as the Tribe broke camp here today.

Vic Davalillo and Leon Wagner are settled in center and left field, respectively, but several candidates have been battling for the right field job during the spring training season.

Davalillo is recovering from a sprained ankle suffered last week. Acting Manager George Strickland said Sunday that if the little Venezuelan is unable to play in the season opener April 14, Woodie Held would be in center against the Minnesota Twins in Cleveland.

Three right field candidates—Tito Francona, Bob Chance and Al Luplow—didn't help their chances Sunday as the Indians lost, 8-6, to the Chicago Cubs in their final appearance here until next spring.

Francona grounded out to end the game with the bases loaded, and Chance, who preceded him at the plate, struck out as a pinch hitter for pitcher Ted Abernathy. Luplow went 0-for-three and didn't get a ball out of the infield.

Henry Nails Steady Job With Redlegs

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Quiet Bill Henry is one of the Cincinnati Reds who is pretty sure of a steady job this summer.

Henry, the mainstay of the Reds' bullpen, worked the last inning Sunday as Cincinnati beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-5. He allowed two hits—one a homer by bonus beauty Bob Bailey—and struck out one.

"My arm feels stronger and looser now than at any time since 1961," the 36 - year - old Texan said after the game.

The Pirates gave Cincinnati little trouble even though Bailey hit two home runs and Jim Pagliaroni connected for a homer with two men on base.

That was all the scoring the Pirates did, while Johnny Edwards, Gordy Coleman and Bob Skinner each drove in two runs for the Reds.

Edwards collided with Coleman in the ninth inning, and the Reds' first baseman left the game with a badly bruised nose. Edwards finished the game.

The victory gave the Reds an 11-12 record in exhibition play. They meet the Philadelphia Phillies today.

Celina Woman Grabs Lead in Bowling Test

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Doris Siebert of Celina rolled a 701 to take the singles lead of the Ohio Woman's Bowling Association state tournament over the weekend.

The team lead was captured by Jim Connell Chevrolet of Cleveland with 3094.

Marge Schleimer of Cleveland took the lead in all-events, figured scratch, with 1811, and the team of Rita Allison, Akron, and Sandy Walters, Cuyahoga Falls, retained the doubles lead with 1321.

Cepeda Paces Giants Win

Slugger at Top Of 7-Year Career

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Orlando Cepeda wasn't a holdout this year, which may cause National League pitchers to wish they had been.

Cepeda, San Francisco's controversial slugger, is ripping his way through the best spring he has had in his seven-year career.

He smashed his sixth home run Sunday in the Giants' 5-2 exhibition baseball victory over Boston. He has a .419 batting average, three doubles and four triples to go along with the homers.

A major factor in Cepeda's exploding spring play very easily could be the lack of a contract battle with the Giants' front office. He signed for $53,000 and started training when everyone else did.

That was entirely different from last season when he held out for 24 days before signing for a token raise to an estimated $47,000.

He proceeded to hit .316, clout 34 homers and knock in 97 runs, a performance still well below his 1961 output when he batted .311, hit 46 homers and drove in 142 tallies.

The Giants lost to Los Angeles 10-7 last Wednesday, but Cepeda smashed a home run, a double and two singles. In a 5-3 triumph over Cleveland last Friday, he slugged two homers and a single, good for four runs batted in.

Elsewhere around the exhibition circuit, Bob Bailey hit two home runs and Jim Pagliaroni got a three-run blast, but Cincinnati stopped Pittsburgh 8-5 behind John Edwards' three doubles and a single.

Milwaukee swept past Washington 5-3 in 11 innings while Detroit nipped Philadelphia 3-2 in 10. St. Louis edged the New York Mets 2-1, the New York Yankees rallied for a 6-4 triumph against Houston and the Chicago Cubs came from behind for an 8-6 victory over Cleveland.

Minnesota defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-1, and Baltimore whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-1.

Columbusites Lead Pin Meet

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—With the 1964 state men's bowling tournament at the halfway mark, the leaders include a former president of the American Bowling Congress, Dr. Joel Bernard of Columbus.

Bernhard knocked down 669 pins this weekend as he and his partner, Paul Clifford, rolled a 1,337 to take the doubles lead

Other leaders held their positions.

The Ohio State Bowling Association also met over the weekend. It elected Alva Redman of Warren president, succeeding Roy Anderson of Akron, and named Columbus as the site of the 1966 tournament. The tournament will be held at the Northern Lights Lanes. The 1965 tournament will be at the Clover Leaf Lanes in Cleveland.

U.S. Olympic Cage Team Is Selected

NEW YORK (AP)—There are many basketball coaches around who'd love a chance to pick at the leftovers now that the 1964 Olympic basketball squad had been selected.

But Hank Iba, who'll coach the U.S. entry at Tokyo in October, has no complaints with the 12-man squad and seven alternates chosen after three days of trials at St. John's University.

"I got what I wanted," said Iba, the Oklahoma State coach who has achieved 700 collegiate victories.

What he got was two All-Americas heading a power-packed team which includes three members of the Goodyear Wingfoots, National AAU champions.

Walt Hazzard of UCLA and Bill Bradley of Princeton were the All-Americas chosen. The selection committee picked Pete McCaffrey, Larry Brown and Dic Davies from the Wingfoots.

Rounding out the squad were Jim Barnes of Texas Western, Joe Caldwell of Arizona State, Mel Counts of Oregon State, Lucious Jackson of Pan American College, Jeff Mullins of Duke, Jerry Shipp of the Phillips 66ers and George Wilson of the Jamaco Saints.

Picked as alternates who'll stand by to replace the top 12, were Gail Goodrich of UCLA, Bunk Adams of the U.S. Army, Fred Hetzel of Davidson, Willie Murrell of Kansas State, Cotton Nash of Kentucky, Reggie Minton of the U.S. Air Force and Dave Stallworth of Wichita.

NRA Course Is Completed By 13 Youths

The National Rifle Assn. hunter safety course conducted by the Pickaway Farmers' and Sportsmen's Assn. was completed by 13 youths yesterday, it was announced by Dick Redman, club secretary.

The club is now accepting registration for a second group, Redman noted. Parents who desire the course for their youngsters may contact Redman or any other member of the club.

Of the 13 boys who have just completed the course, nine belonged to the Atlanta Boy Scout troop. They are:

Larry Kempton, Randy McCoy, Kenny Yates, Robert Patterson, Mike Funk, Gary Stauffer, Delbert Remy, Irvin Funk and John Demjen.

* * *

RONNIE MAJORS, Dennis Shaw, David Kraft and Richard Garrett were sons of members of the club.

Redman emphasized the courses are available to anyone. A new training session will begin as soon as a large enough group is registered.

A triple play that went from Norm Cash to Dick McAuliffe to Don Wert on Sept. 15, 1963, was the first by the Detroit Tigers since 1951.

Proposing to amend Article VIII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio to authorize the issuance of bonds or other obligations up to five hundred million dollars, the proceeds thereof to be used to provide adequate highways in Ohio.

Whereas, in order to continue the economic development of this state it is necessary to advance the completion of the major highway system without increasing the burden on the taxpayers of the state, and

Whereas, such completion can be financed from revenues at present rates and without impairing other highway programs.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, Three-fifths of the members elected to each house thereof concurring therein, that there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Ohio, in the manner prescribed by law, at a special election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May, 1964, a proposition to amend Article VIII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio by adding thereto a new section as follows:

ARTICLE VIII

Section 2g. The state may contract debts not exceeding five hundred million dollars for the purpose of providing moneys for acquisition of rights-of-way and for construction and reconstruction of highways on the state highway system and urban extensions thereof. The principal amount of any part of such debt at any time contracted shall be paid at such time or times and in such amounts as shall be fixed by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund provided that the entire debt shall be discharged not later than the year 1989. The bonds or other obligations evidencing the debt authorized by this section shall bear interest and shall be sold upon such terms as may be prescribed by law. Both the principal of such debt and the interest thereon shall be exempt from taxation within this state. Moneys raised under the authority of this section shall be expended only to provide adequate highways, including engineering and the acquisition of rights-of-way and including participation therein with the federal government, municipal corporations, counties and other legally authorized participants. All construction shall be done by contract as shall be provided by law. No part of such proceeds shall be appropriated except to meet the requirements of programs or schedules or acquisition of rights-of-way, highway construction and reconstruction which the governor, or other highway authority designated by law, with the concurrence of the governor, shall submit to the general assembly before such appropriations are made. Such appropriations shall be made only for major thoroughfares of the state highway system and urban extensions thereof. The debt contracted under the authority of this section shall be evidenced by bonds or other obligations issued by the State of Ohio as provided by law. The faith and credit of the state are hereby pledged for the payment thereof and the interest thereon. Such bonds or other obligations shall be paid from moneys derived from fees, excises, or license taxes, levied by the State of Ohio, relating to registration, operation, or use of vehicles on public highways, or to fuels used for propelling such vehicles, and a sufficient amount thereof, after provision for the amounts required by Article VIII, Section 2c of the Constitution of the State of Ohio for obligations issued pursuant to that section, is hereby appropriated in each year for the purpose of paying the interest on the outstanding debt and the principal of such debt contracted under authority of this section becoming due in that year, without other appropriations, but according to regulations to be established by law. Provision may be made by law for the transfer and the use of any amount of such moneys in excess of that required, in any year, for the payment of interest on and the principal of such debt contracted under authority of this section and said section 2c.

Be it further resolved, That at the election herein designated for submission of this amendment to the electors of the State of Ohio, the same shall be placed on the official ballot in the manner prescribed by law and shall be designated as follows:

NO

And be it further resolved, That the required publication of the said proposed amendment shall be made and the form of ballot to be used in said election for the submission thereof shall be prepared by the Secretary of State of the State of Ohio in conformity with the above provisions. If a majority of the electors voting on said amendment be declared according to law to have voted in favor thereof the governor of the State of Ohio shall make proclamation thereof forthwith.

The Business World

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)— The business upturn reached the ripe old age of 38 months this week.

That made it the longest business expansion in peacetime.

Some economists felt it was getting decrepit.

Others contended it is still robust and has a considerably longer life ahead.

Majority opinion tended toward the belief that things look good for the months ahead.

M. R. Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, expressed this opinion:

"Because there are none of the familiar signs of economic strain, I would say the top of this expansion isn't even in sight yet, especially considering the stimulating effect of the recent tax reducation."

The Chase Manhattan Bank of New York said:

"The odds are high that the economy will be operating at, or quite close to practical capacity later this year. This is likely to be true even with moderation in consumer markets, capital expenditure and inventories."

At present, the upswing isn't hampered by the usual signs of an expansion's demise. Inventories aren't excessive, loans aren't difficult to obtain and prices are relatively stable.

This is despite the fact that the upturn well exceeds the 30-month average for all 26 previous U.S. business expansions since records were first kept in 1854.

It is being carried along by corporations' high sales and earnings, particularly in the automobile and steel industries, and heavy investment in new plant and equipment.

On the strength of this, the stock market has reached successive new highs, adding to the optimism.

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Sears, Roebuck and Co., among others, supplied evidence this week that business is moving along at a high level.

AT&T reported record earnings of $397,918,000 or $1.58 a share, for the three months ended Feb. 29, compared with $358,858,000, or $1.43 a share, a year earlier. Sales rose to $2,474,815,000 from $2,295,271,000 a year earlier.

Sears, Roebuck sales for the year ended Jan. 31 totaled $5.1 billion, crossing the $5-billion mark for the first time. The big mail - order chain earned $261 million, or $3.44 a share, against $234.6 million, or $3.10 a share, in the previous year.

Consumers got a little good news when the cost of living declined in March for the first time since December 1961. It was just a little drop—one-tenth of one per cent—and the Bureau of Labor Statistics predicted a resumption of the rise this month.

The Census Bureau reported that manufacturers' new orders and shipments in February declined slightly from record levels in January.

Steel production climbed last week to the highest lvl sinc last June 22, totaling 2,406,000 tons, up 1.9 per cent from the previous week. Signs of a leveling off in steel demand appeared, however. Indications were that shipments will fall in May and June and rebound in July.

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Reiner is a bright, funny fellow and many viewers would enjoy his work if he were—as they say—reading the listings from the phone book.

The sad truth is that Reiner would have been in much better performing shape Sunday night if he had been reading the phone book. He turned up as major domo of a new CBS panel show called "The Celebrity Game."

There was not much game but there sure was a passel of Hollywood celebrities—nine on one panel. They were called upon for yes and no answers to such weighty questions as "Do you think European actresses have more sex appeal than American?" and "Do women fall in love faster with a man with money?"

A panel of three studio contestants had to guess how the stars voted. The going was heavy and very slow.

Even so it was considerably more spritely than the other new panel show which followed it on CBS. This was something called "Made in America," billed as "the program that will prove this is truly a land of opportunity." It proved something, but not that.

This time the panel held only three celebrities and Hans Conried was host. The panel's job was to guess, with the help of clues, the product with which each of three millionaires made his — or her — fortune.

CBS obviously had some second thoughts about the sorry pair of shows with which it is filling the vacant "Judy Garland Show" hour. It abruptly switched order of the shows late Friday and put Conried, originally on the panel, in as host at the last minute of "Made in America."

All three major networks with film biographies and handsome tributes to General Douglas MacArthur. ABC got its program on the air first in the late afternoon, followed by CBS an hour later. NBC put on its special MacArthur memorial in the late evening.

City Takes Part In Observance Of Chamber Week

Circleville, along with other cities throughout the nation, joined today in observance of Chamber of Commerce Week. The special recognition period opened yesterday and will extend until Saturday.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has issued an official proclamation designating the observance in recognition of the part Chambers play in the develoment of our country. Similar proclamations have been voiced by Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio and Circleville Mayor Ben Gordon.

The recognition week is being sponsored locally by the Circleville Area Chamber, according to president Dale DeLong. Directing the event here is the organization's public relations committe, headed by Dan Crabtree.

Purposes for Chamber of Commerce Week, DeLong pointed out, are: 1. to create a public awareness and understanding of the purpose and need for the Chamber; 2. to give recognition to the Chamber's staff and to volunteer leaders for their constructive participation in community affairs; 3. to further strengthen relations with organizations and agencies in our community.

* * *

IN MAKING known the special observance, DeLong urged local interest and participation. "The local Chamber, together with other organizations throughout the country are constantly working for the welfare of its residents, and will continue to work toward the ideals of commercial and industrial advancement and civic betterment," the local executive said.

The Circleville Chamber is headquartered at 127½ E. Main St., where its many functions are coordinated by Mrs. E. R. Bennett, extcutive secretary. The organization's officers and directors meet once each month for regular sessions and on numerous other occasions for special events.

The Chamber's guideline for 1964 is a "Program Of Action", which was outlined and presented earlier this year. This project lists the various committes of the organization, members assigned and the proposed objectives of each.

Each Chamber committee has a chairman and several members. The panels meet at various times to discuss an assortment of projects. Suggestions and recommendations are then forwarded on to the Chamber Board for final decision or action.

One of the more recent projects rated a tremendous success by those participating, was Business - Industry - Education Day conducted here Mar. 13. The organization plays a leading role in the annual "Sidewalk Sale" presented in July, also considered an outstanding event.

Special events planned this week by the Chamber's public relations committee include a window display in the downtown area, appropriate news stories and pictures and a session for committee reports.

CHAMBER DIRECTORS AND GUESTS — Included in this group picture are officers and directors who head the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce for 1964. These officials, along with others throughout the country, have placed special emphasis on a "Chamber of Commerce Week" observance which opened Sunday. Pictured here at a regular monthly session are, from the left: Forrest Thomerson, Walter Garner, Dr. Richard Samuel, Donald Colegrove, Fiske O'Hara, Richard Shaw, Ninde Lawson (committee chairman), Mrs. E. R. Bennett (secretary), Charles Allton, Dale DeLong (president), Fritz Jacobs (guest), Jack Clifton (vice president), Dan Crabtree, David Yates, Charles Boggs, Paul Smallwood (guest) and Charles Wellman. Better Rating Is Goal

City Fire Department Seeks Improvement of Capabilities

An extensive study for the purpose of producing improved fire fighting capabilities has been launched by the Circleville Fire Department.

A main objective, according to Chief Bernard Wolfe, is to improve the city's fire protection insurance rate classification which is determined through periodical checks by the Ohio Inspection Bureau. A thorough inspection of local facilities was completed late last year.

Chief Wolfe and his personnel, using the Ohio Bureau's complete inspection report as a guide, are reviewing ways and means of improving facilities and capabilities. The current goal is to obtain a No. 7 insurance rate classification.

Insurance rates paid by property owners and business firms in the community are determined by the classification set down by the Ohio Inspection Bureau. This agency bases its decision on the periodical inspections it makes.

* * *

CIRCLEVILLE'S present classification is a No. 8. "This rating can be improved if the city will take certain recommended steps," Chief Wolfe said.

High on the priority list, Wolfe said, would be an increase in department personnel and the purchase of a combination pumper-ladder truck.

The state bureau's recommendation was to increase the department staff to allow a minimum of five men to be on duty at all times. This, the report suggested, could lead to the formation of two engine companies that would be available to respond to each structural alarm within the city.

The bureau's comprehensive survey, conducted by inspector J. R. Jones Jr., covered all phases of firefighting means available to the city. This included the water supply system, the fire alarm system, fire prevention and building codes, along with the fire department itself.

The inspection, the first conducted here since 1956, listed important changes and improvements in the city during the seven - year period. This included Circleville's new water supply and pumping facilities, the new elevated water storage tank and extension of large diameter water feeder mains.

Changes within the fire department include the appointment of Wolfe as new chief. Operational advances noted were the initiation of hose testing, pumper testing, a training program, building inspections conducted by all members of the department. It also listed removal of the city's box telegraph alarm system.

* * *

VISIONS for improved facilities here have been referred to Circleville Council. Chief Wolfe and Safety Director Miller Fissell plan a thorough review of recommendations listed in the Inspection Bureau's report. They will coordinate the study with members of the solons' safety committee.

Wolfe said the move to act on the recommendations has two equally important objectives: 1. to improve the department's firefighting capabilities; 2. to decrease fire protection insurance rates in the city, both residential and commercial.

Another recommendation drawing the special attention of Chief Wolfe is one pertaining to formation of an active, well trained volunteer auxiliary to assist paid firemen. These volunteers could respond to all first alarms with the exception of those of a known minor nature.

The chief said the latest inspection clearly indicates that the city's firefighting capability have failed to keep pace with the communitys' rapid population growth and need for additional manpower and facilities. "A program designed to bring improvements should be delayed no longer," he declared.

TOMORROW: A rundown on the 19 recommendations, as listed by the Ohio Inspection Bureau, considered necessary for improved capabilities and a better fire protection classification rating.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Showers entered the southwestern counties of Ohio shortly after sundown Sunday, and by daybreak today they covered all 88 counties.

Rainfall amounts ranged from one-tenth of an inch over Eastern Ohio to three-fourths over the southwest.

The showers were associated with a weak cold front which was moving out of Indiana into Ohio early today.

With passage of the front, the showers were expected to end over the western counties this forenoon, with the last of the showers appearing over the eastern counties this evening.

Dry weather is indicated for a period of 24 to 36 hours with more showers expected about Wednesday.

Temperatures this morning ranged from 43 at Youngstown to 59 at Cincinnati. Toledo had 52, Cleveland 50 and Columbus 56. All are expected to continue mild today and Tuesday.

Mennonite Missionaries Help Scrub Flooded Town

WEST POINT, Ky. (AP)—An unusual kind of missionary work helped scrub away the mud and emotional strain left by a spring flood in this Ohio River town of 2,000 population.

Twenty-five Mennonites combined their muscle and kindness with tools supplied by the Red Cross to clean 22 houses and a church after three-fourths of the town had been forced to flee the worst flood in 20 years in America's midland.

"They just took over whatever dirty job got in their way and made things right," commented Police Judge Gladys Stackhouse.

Twelve of 15 Mennonites from Elkhart, Ind., are still at work daily trying to help the aged and helpless rebuild their homes.

The men belong to the Mennonite Disaster Service, a public help group founded 12 years ago. Their services are free and the disaster work is considered part of the religious sect's missionary program.

Mrs. Henry Madden pointed to the high-water mark in her living room and said: "I prayed for help, and these Mennonites came. People worried about me, but I knew I could pray, and my help came."

Her husband is 83 and just recovering from surgery.

"God sent them," commented Miss Lillie Lewis.

The men cleaned her home when the March flood receded. Now they are repairing its interior.

The Mennonites sent volunteer crews to Falmouth, Ky. and Cincinnati and nurses to Manchester, Ohio, during the flood.

At West Point they expect to contribute about 1,600 hours toward rebuilding the town.

West Point is about 30 miles southwest of Louisville and was perhaps Kentucky's hardest-hit town during the flood. It is at the juncture of the Salt and Ohio Rivers and is home for many of the workers at nearby Ft. Knox.

The Mennonites talk very little and leave the explanations to their leader, Levi Bontreger.

Asked about the sect's altruism, he produced a pamphlet which read, in part: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ. Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart . . . and thy neighbor as thyself."

Ohio GI Recaptured After Prison Escape

Cast of Actual Convicts Tells of Life in Prison

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP)—The punch line in "The Crime Skit" is a statement by a life-term prisoner that his son also is serving life in the same prison.

The audience knows this is not just an actor's line. Members of the cast are convicts from the Indiana State Prison telling their own stories.

Ben Lawrence, still under 40 and doing life for kidnaping, tells of his son, under a life sentence for murder. He says, "What I hate most is wasting his life."

Father and son seldom meet in the big prison.

"The Crime Skit" has a cast of five lifers and a young man serving 25 years. The show has been on the road for six weeks, playing at high school convocations, PTA meetings and conferences of parole and juvenile officers. It is booked solid through May.

Four guards, whose concern is not the theater, make every trip with the actors.

The skit takes place in a cell block. The prisoners talk about their lives before they were sent to prison. Their first petty crimes, heir contempt for religion, school authorities and police, the early ages at which they dropped out of school.

Leon Baron, prison public relations officer, says pupils' attention to the show is almost hypnotic.

Once a group laughed when a lifer, asked whether he went to school, replied, "Sure, I went to school — in the front door and right out the back door."

The hilarity ended abruptly as the convict barked:

"Go ahead and laugh. You'll end up here. And anything, even starving on the outside, is better than this."
